Consolation Steeplechase.

BALTIMORE, Md., May 23.—Getaway day at Pimilco today was marked by five well played thoroughbreds, an odds-on favorite and long shot winning. One of the victories went to a Baltimorean, Ral Parr, whose Little Hugh scored in the consolation steeplechase. The closing event on such a day is generally won by an outsider, and such was the case today, when Elsewhere paid $22.80 for a $2 ticket. Elma won the last event at Havre de Grace at 10 to 1.

The sixth race at a mile and a sixteenth resulted in the feature contest. It was one of endurance for Paton and Belle of Bryn Mawr. Paton, who ran such a sensational race the day before, after being left at the post, came right back and showed how good a thoroughbred he is right now by winning a length from Belle, which ran second to him Friday. Captures King's Plate at Woodbine's Opening Race Day.

TORONTO, Ontario, May 23.—Beehive, top-heavy favorite, showed his heels to a great field of Canadian-bred horses today in the King's Plate, the feature of the opening day at Woodbine. The Seagram entries ran two-three, but were not good enough to win. Favorites failed to win a majority of the races.

David Craig, the Schorr crack, failed in the opener, while Aunt Josie, another crack from the same stable, was beaten in the second race. Edda, the third Schorr horse to start, ran second in the third TORONTO, Ontario, May 23.-Beehive

NATIONALS HAVE WON NINE OF ELEVEN GAMES

Little Johnny McTaggart was the riding hero of the day, but he nearly met with a serious accident while going to the post on Carbureter in the last race. In front of the grandstand the bridle on his mount broke and the horse started to run away. McTaggart had presence of mind enough to jump. He had the wind knocked out of him and after being carried into the jockeys' clubhorse quickly revived and was none the worse for his fall.

Campbell replaced him and Carbureter started to run away, going to the barrier, but the negro jockey got the horse under his control on the first turn. Carbureter ran through the gate to the paddock and then shot through the gate into the inclosure where the jockeys in every one of them. This record shows that the Nationals are showing considerable into the inclosure where the jockeys in expected to do the bulk dock and then shot through the gate able improvement in their hitting. The not the inclosure where the jockeys who are expected to do the bulk of the batting, but who were in poor form McTaggart showed with Deviltry in the arriler in the season, seem to have found opening race. He won the next two their batting eyes.

"Tillie" Walker had a very peculiar experience in the seventh inning, when, after driving the ball to the extreme left field corner, he collided with Chick Gandel, standing twenty-five feet from first base with his back turned to the runner. Walker was so intent on watching Shanks chase his hit that he could not have seen Gandil, for he ran into him and was sent sprawling into the dust Walk. was sent sprawling into the dust. Walk-er complained to Umpire Hildebrand and though that official did not see the inci-dent he allowed Waker to go as far as third on his hit. But for his bumping into Gandil it might have been a home

When Dan Moeller is hitting as he has of late, it would be no easy matter to find a player who can replace him in right field. Moeller is not only a good fielder and thrower, but he gets on the bases a good deal, and next to Milan is one of the best base runners in the league. His daring on the bases has helped the Nationals to win many a ball game during the three seasons he has played here, and if he should be fortunate enough to have a good season with the bat he will prove invaluable to his team.

Manager Griffith was much aroused when he read the Associated Press dis-

Win Bronx Tennis Title.

NEW YORK, May 23.-B. M. Phillips and G. C. Shafer captured the Bronx tennis championship in the doubles today at the Bedford Park Club. In the final the pair beat W. C. Grant and J.

BY J. ED GRILLO.

The present stage of the American League pennant race is undoubtedly one of the most interesting in the history of the organization. Detroit, Washington and Philadelphia are within two games of each other, and all the teams below them, barring Cleveland, are by no means out of the running. For once in many years the present race is one in which the winner is not easily picked. It is, of course, true that the Athletics are still the public choice, this because of the established fact that Mack has a wonderful ball team, one which on every occasion in recent years has shown great superiority over its National League rivals in the world's series, in addition to its well known prowess in its own league.

It is perhaps true that the Athletics' chances this season are no as they have been in several other campaigns. There is some doubt about the strength of Mack's pitching staff, but in no other respect is the team lacking. There was nothing particularly brilliant about the Mack pitching department ast season. The effective work was virtually all done by Plank and B the team's veteran twirlers, and from present indications most of it is up to them in the present campaign. There is also a suspicion that neither the Gettysburg Farmer is as formidable as he used to be, and that gradual deterioration will prove too great a handleap for the strengt their gradual deterioration will prove their gradual deterioration will prove the remainder of the team to overcome.

But for all that there is no way to figure the Athletics out of the runn But for all that there is no way to figure the Athletics out of the runn It's a great ball team, and one of its rivals would have to have a lot of a like a great ball team, and one of its rivals would have to have a lot of a like a great ball team.

Detroit has been the surprise of the present race. Jennings seems to have added some very promising material to his splendid nucleus for a winner, and the team has been gaining victories consistently. What ground it has lost since coming east, however, leads to the belief that it is not as strong a team as its western record would have indicated, though some allowance must be made for the absence of Cobb from the series with the Athletics, which was lost two to one. Cobb means much to that ball team. His wonderful individuality, together with the confidence which his presence in the line-up instills in his teammates, not to speak of the consternation it brings to the opposition, cuts quite a figure in the Tigers' playing, and to have him on the injured list is a hard blow.

So far as Washington is concerned there is no denying the fact that the team apparently has the best chance it has ever had to win a pennant. Not only is it nearer the top of the ladder after about five weeks or so of the race has been fought, but there are indications that the team is better fortified in several respects than it has ever been before. For instance, it begins to look very much as if Walter Johnson will have the benefit of some able twirling assistance this season. To date Griffith has a regular pitching squad of four consistent workers—Johnson, Ayers, Shaw and Boehling—any one of whom can give a good account of himself. Four pitchers should carry a team along pretty well, and especially so in view of the fact that most of the other teams are not blessed with such strength.

As a defensive aggregation Griffith's team really has no rival. It is a hard proposition to score on, and while it is not to be classed with the strong-hitting combinations in the race it seems to be much improved in this respect also, because of the development of several players who since last season seem to have learned the art of getting the ball into safe territory.

So far as speed is concerned there is little more to be asked. The team shows to good advantage on the bases, and numbers among its members two of the best base runners in fast company, Milan and Moeller.

Though Boston has not yet reached the first division, that team must not be figured as not having a chance. There ought to be a vast improvement in the playing of the Red Sox henceforth, and this will be particularly true if Joe Wood shows his best form when he gets well enough to work regularly. Wood, Foster, Collins, Leonard and Bedient form a very strong pitching staff. Wagner, of course, is missed from the infield, but there is no team in the race which can boast of a better balanced or stronger outfield than Speaker, Lewis and Hooper make up. It has not yet been proven that Bill Carrigan is not a capable man to get good results out of his aggregation. He creates the impression that he will, so that Boston must be conceded to have a good chance to be prominent in the present race for the American League pennant.

So far as the other teams are concerned there does not appear to be a real so far as the other teams are concerned there does not appear to be a real contender among them, though all of them are sure to be troublesome at times Cleveland, which is now last, will do a lot better when it gets its cripples back in the game. St. Louis has a hustling, fast team, with good pitchers, and Chicago always is hard to beat at home, and with its pitchers in good form it, too, is apt to cause a lot of upsets.
